LEADERSHIP

Vonlet is led by its chief executive officer from head office in Queensdale, Harare, working with the operations, technical and customer service teams that run deployments across Zimbabwe and part of Zambia.

CORE BUSINESS

Manned guarding and static protection, protective clothing and specialised safety gear, technical surveillance and electronic security, 24/7/365 on-call tactical protection, and a dedicated customer service and client support division.

AT HEAD OFFICE

The chief executive.

Twenty-three service lines.

— Published on the site
— Supplied by the company

Every line Vonlet offers, in the seven groups the catalogue uses. Fifteen are published on vonletsecurity.co.zw; the eight sector, escort and investigation lines were supplied by the company for its own site.

MANNED GUARDING · 3

Officers on post, static or roving, armed or unarmed, in uniform or in plain clothes.

- Armed guards
- Unarmed guards
- Secret service — undercover guards

SECTOR SECURITY · 6

The same discipline applied to the risk a particular site carries.

- Bank & ATM security
- Warehouse & logistics security
- Retail security
- Farms & mines security
- Residential security
- Functions & event security

PROTECTION & INVESTIGATION · 2

The journey and the enquiry, where a fixed post cannot follow.

- Private escorts
- Private investigations

K-9 · 2

Watch, attack and scent work with a trained handler.

- Dog services
- Dog handling training

ELECTRONIC SECURITY · 5

Cameras, access, alarms, response and the evidence of a beat walked.

- Close circuit television (CCTV)
- Access control systems
- Intruder alarm systems
- Rapid response systems
- Guard monitoring systems

TRAINING & SAFETY · 4

The instruction behind the uniform, and the safety skills beside it.

- Fire drill
- First aid
- Basic security guard training
- Firearm handling

CASH SERVICES · 1

Managing the movement of cash from task to book.

- Cash-in-transit

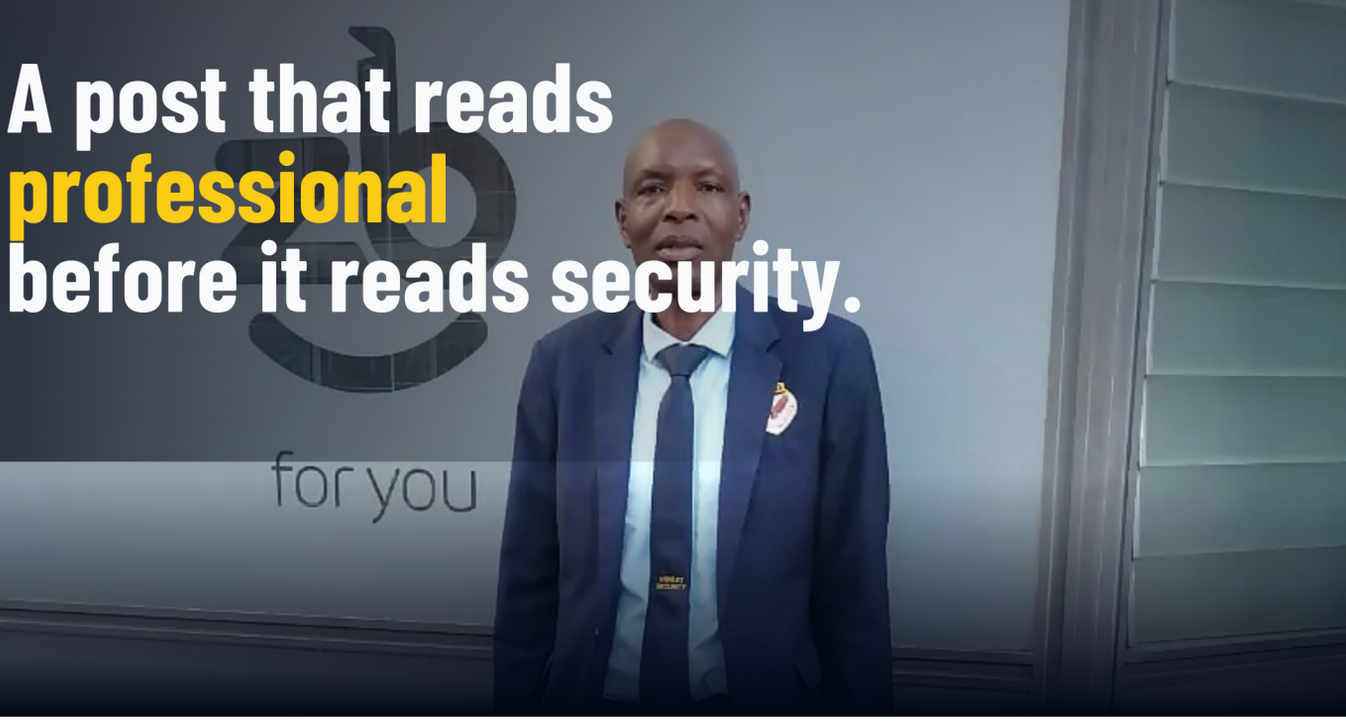

ONE PARTNER

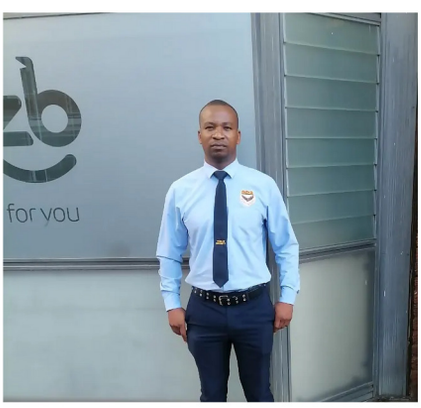

Every layer.

No two sites carry the same risk. The lines above are combined into one coordinated plan — a warehouse gate, a banking hall, a farm boundary, a family home.

FEATURE — BANKING & CORPORATE POSTS

A post that reads professional before it reads security.

WHY PRESENTATION IS THE FIRST CONTROL

At a bank the risk sits in the few minutes a customer spends at the counter or the machine. A visible uniform beside the terminal discourages the observation of PIN entry, snatch-and-run theft, and the tampering and skimming that target an unattended terminal. The officer at the door is also the queue manager at peak hours, and the person who notices the vehicle that has been idling a little too long.

After hours the same post keeps the machine and its surroundings under watch. Attempted break-ins, loitering vehicles, blocked sight-lines and damaged casing are reported to the control room while there is still time to act, and every visit is written into the occurrence book — so the client has a record of cover, not a promise of it.

ALSO COVERED UNDER SECTOR SECURITY

Bank & ATM security

Static posts, after-hours cover, logged visits

Warehouse & logistics

Gate control, load verification, roving patrols

Retail security

Uniformed door presence and discreet floor cover

Functions & events

Briefed officers for arrivals and guest movement

Scoped on site: entrances, the cash office, the ATM line and the hours each needs cover.

The boundary is the job.

On a farm or a mine the perimeter is the problem: kilometres of fence, gates that are meant to be open, and value that is in the ground, in a dam, on a weighbridge or in a truck. Vonlet works the boundary on foot and by vehicle, posts officers at the gate that matters and roves the rest rather than leaving it to chance.

The gatehouse register, written as visits happen

CLEARED BOUNDARY, WALKED

Patrol routes and check-times are set by the site risk assessment.

Perimeter patrols

On foot and by vehicle, on a route the intruder cannot learn.

Gate control

A stock movement register at the gate that matters.

Armed cover

For ore, fuel, explosives stores and aggregate operations.

K-9 support

For veld, dam and store searches where a dog is faster.

Capability, down to the detail.

BRANDED RESPONSE FLEET

RAPID RESPONSE, ON THE FORECOURT

Covered trucks

Secure movement of goods alongside patrol and personnel vehicles.

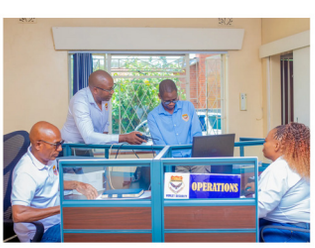

CCTV systems

Cameras installed, maintained and monitored by the technical team.

Perimeter masts

Camera units on poles overlooking walls and yards.

Guard monitoring

NFC, beacon and QR tours reported as each check-in happens.

ELECTRONIC SECURITY, FIVE LINES

- Close circuit television (CCTV)
- Intruder alarm systems
- Guard monitoring systems
- Access control systems
- Rapid response systems

THE CONTROL ROOM

Duty rosters, site reports and client communication are coordinated from head office. Equipment shown is photographed in service; exact models are confirmed during site assessment.

Cash in transit, the Vonlet way.

Cash-in-transit provides management of the cash collection service for CIT staff: the assignment of tasks, the selection of routes, and the accounting of all books. Runs are made with Vonlet's branded fleet.

THE RUN, IN FOUR STEPS

01 / ON THE ROUTE

One route, planned in advance

02 / CREW CHECK

Two officers, one console, before wheels move

03 / THE LOADING BAY

Sealed, counted and signed for

04 / AT THE COUNTER

WHAT THE SERVICE ACTUALLY COVERS

01

Task assignment

Every collection and delivery is assigned to a crew, a time and a vehicle before the day begins.

02

Route selection

Routes are chosen in advance, with alternates, rather than left to the driver on the morning.

03

Accounting for all books

Each book is accounted for against the run, so the paper trail closes with the cash.

Vonlet publishes cash-in-transit as a core service on its home page rather than as one of the individual service pages. Requirements for the movement of cash are subject to applicable transport and site-specific approvals.

FOUR STEPS TO DEPLOYMENT

01

Evaluate candidates

All candidates are evaluated one on one. The best are selected for interview.

02

Job interviews

Interviews are conducted in groups and also further done on an individual basis.

03

Selection & training

The successful candidates are selected and undergo training and contract signing.

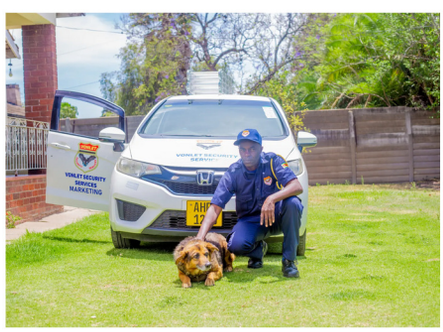

04

Employed & deployed

The employed officers are then deployed to various work stations.

Strategy and planning, control-and-restraint drill, and the K-9 handler.

TRAINING & SAFETY, FOUR LINES

Basic security guard training

The foundation course before a first posting.

Firearm handling

Additional hours, licensing card and a multi-point check.

Fire drill

Evacuation procedure and equipment, rehearsed on site.

First aid

The kit, the drill and the confidence to use both.

> K-9
>
> Watch and attack dogs supplied with trained handlers, plus dog handling training. Vonlet's dogs also assist guards and law enforcement with drug and explosives searches, locating missing people and finding evidence.

Every candidate is screened before they wear the uniform.

These are the steps Vonlet publishes for its recruitment process. Officers are trained in-house, and armed officers train in collaboration with the Zimbabwe Republic Police and the Zambia National Police.
